

Infinitive of Purpose Adventure Board Game

Thorny bushes blocking the way	Town full of enemies to cross	Very soft ground (e.g. sinking sand or a bog/swamp)	Very thick jungle	START A shoe falls apart
Sudden heavy rain	Work in groups of at least four people and divide each group into at least two teams. Each team should look at the challenges that you might have to overcome in the board game and choose seven objects which you want to take with you on your journey to help with those things. It must be possible for the two or three people in your team to carry all the things that you choose, and you aren't allowed anything with (mechanical or electrical) power. Your teacher will tell you if you should use the list of objects below, come up with your own ideas, or both. When you have reported the objects that you have chosen, place one counter per team (e.g. a pen cap) on the START square. Roll the dice. To move to the new square suggested by the number on the dice, you must explain how you can use one of your objects to get past the challenge that is written there. You can also use things that are probably around you like rocks and branches, but you must use at least one thing from the selection of things you chose to solve each challenge. You can combine objects and reuse objects for more than one challenge if you like. If the other team(s) agree that solution which you suggest is possible with the object(s) which you mention and would work, you move to that square. If not, you have to stay on the square you were on when you rolled the dice and try again when your turn comes.			Aggressive dog
